The Hero Behind the Scenes

May is the month of the Military Spouse. No other spouses have a month dedicated to recognizing the unique and highly valued contribution they make in their community. The military spouse is a very special person, who gives more than ever imagined by the average spouse.

At the altar a vow is made, the words "I do, for better or worse" are said, but few Military Spouses completely understand what they mean. A vow that is not only made to their loved one but also to the military. It is only through the frequent moves, the stress of deployment, being away from family and parenting alone that the words take on their true meaning. The hardships and frustrations of furnishing a home only to sell your belongs for the next move because they do not fit into your new quarters or living with just some of your prized possessions because you were not authorized to move them to the new duty station can be daunting. Having to change schools and working to meet ever changing educational standards for their children, dealing with making new friends only to leave them is difficult at best. It doesn't take long for these hard realities of life as a Military Spouse to set in and take hold once the honeymoon is over.

But what truly sets the Military Spouses apart and warrants a month of special recognition is that the Military Spouse does all things willingly. The Military Spouse steps forward to mentor and help the next generation of military spouses to learn the ropes, develop coping skills and meet the challenges head on. Giving them the strength needed to accomplish these difficult tasks on their own.

The Military Spouse answers the call to duty along side the Soldier knowing the military is not just a job but a way of life. The Military Spouse stands at attention when the flag passes by bearing the same enormous pride for country, honor and duty as the Soldier.

While our Soldiers are away serving the nation the military spouse keeps the home front safe and viable. The military spouse learns to play a sport and step onto the field to teach it to children. The military spouse learns to build a camp fire so that our youth can partake in scouting. The military spouse steps up to take on leadership in the Family Readiness Group to facilitate communication, and a sense of camaraderie that carries families through the toughest of times. They embrace parents of young service members to ease their anxieties over their sons and daughters careers as Soldiers. The military spouse volunteers time to help organize and run a multitude of services to better the community, like AFTB, Baby Bundles and Housing Mayoral programs, just to name a few. The military spouse puts her own children in childcare so that she can instruct Sunday school for others each week. The Military Spouse is the backbone of the community, the glue holding it all together.

The Military Spouse is the most flexible, understanding, steadfast individual, who demonstrates a love and commitment to spouse, family and community all at once as these things are intermingled and inseparable. In the month of May say thank you to the Military Spouse, and appreciate the many contributions they make.

A New Look for BOSS

The BOSS building is currently undergoing renovations that will modernize and provide the additional space necessary to accommodate the growing number of soldiers on Fort Drum. A new 1200 sq.ft. addition is being added to the existing structure creating a great/game room. This large open area is intended to house pool, ping pong, air hockey and foosball tables. Additionally a mobile platform used for staging will be installed allowing the room to be utilized for concerts, productions and meetings.

The rest of the facility will undergo reconstruction as well, creating a larger more efficient kitchen, new bathrooms with showers, a new utility closet and sliding glass doors will be added for easier access to the pavilion/picnic area. The cyber lounge and front desk will remain in their current locations but will receive cosmetic changes giving the entire facility a unified appearance.

The interior of the facility will be given the same rustic Adirondack appearance as the Lodges at Remington Park complete with a fire place. This project is expected to be complete by late fall this year.

While the construction is underway the BOSS program will be operating at Remington Park. MWR programmers, BOSS Soldiers, and the Installation BOSS representative in a partnership with Youth Services will be hosting countless children's events throughout the coming summer. Check out the MWR "PREVIEW" magazine for times, dates and events.

Military Spouses sit with their children at a Celebrity Reading at the Commons. One of the many special events happening on Fort Drum for family members.
